

Santa Pelagia

Via San Massimo 21

St. Pelagia offers munificent work and assistance and it was among the first places in Italy to ensure primary education free of charge and available for everyone. The educational activities still continue today, They include teacher training courses , instruction for children, seminars for educators and music classes for younger children.

Other than the church, built according to the fashion in Turin in the eighteenth-century, Opera Santa Pelagia has several rooms that are used for teaching and structured in such a way they can accommodate meetings and workshops, all under the auspices of St. Pelagia protector, patron saint of musicians, actors and mimes.
