

OGR (Officine Grandi Riparazioni)

Corso Castelfidardo 22

The most important example of Turin industrial plants redevelopment, it used to be the key centre for repairing and overhauling railway carriages. Strategically located along the railway line Milan-Turin, its construction laid the groundwork for peopling the San Paolo District. Thanks to its imposing naves and broad spatial structure, the "Officine Grandi Riparazioni" is now one of the most illustrious examples of city redevelopment. Temporary exhibitions, meetings with writers, guided tours for schools, educational workshops and distinguished guests meet in this prestigious cultural center.
